Daily Nation Kenya Times	38 25	Minister sheds light on power outage Minister blames blackout Committee told that nationwide blackout could not be avoided The Energy Minister Kiraitu Murungi yesterday told the parliamentary committee that the five-hour outage on Sunday could not be avoided because Kamburu hydroelectric power station in Eastern Province had no back up third transformer. He assured the committee that senior officers in his ministry and managers at the power firm and Kenya Generating Company managers who were part of his team had told him that plans were underway to boost hydro-power generation to avoid future crisis.
